News from the Capital

Nearly All the Prominent Appointments Already Made.

PATRONAGE OF NEW YORK

President Aspirants for the Offices Not Already Filled—A New Candidate for the Office of Comptroller of Currency—Other Washington News.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Since the appointment of the collector and postmaster of New York, the interest and attention of New York politicians has considerably subsided. Only two more important appointments are expected this soon, and they are the apportionment of the port and the general appraiser. The first named officers are of no political importance, as there is considerable patronage attached to them. The general appraiser is also an officer of importance to merchants, but is not so politically so to politicians.

It is understood that the appointment of a naval officer for New York has been postponed, and the same is true of the United States marshal for that district. Gen. James O'Brien is prominently mentioned for that place, but the present incumbent, Marshal McDaniel, will probably remain until July, and possibly remain even four months longer than that. It all depends upon the decisions which the president and the attorney general arrive at, as to what the term of office of a new appraiser will be in vacation ex-

The New York marshal was appointed four years ago next July, but was not confirmed until the senate met in the December following. The confirmation runs for four years from the time of confirmation.

A new candidate for the place of comptroller of the currency has appeared in the person of ex Representative Edward S. Lacy, of Charlotte, Mich. Mr. Lacy represented the Third congressional district of Michigan in the Forty-seventh and Forty-eighth Congresses and made considerable reputation for himself in that time for his work on financial matters of the house. He is a broker, and Senator McMillan and Stockbridge, who presented his name to the president, emphasized the fact of his familiarity with banking matters. It is said that the appointment of the comptroller of the currency will be made some time next week. Mr. Richard Parsons, of Cleveland, O., is the other prominent candidate for the place.

Responsible for the Sanborn Disaster.
WASHINGTON, April 8.—During the past week there has been considerable talk in naval circles about the responsibility of the recent disaster at Sanborn. A number of the most prominent disciplinarians of the service are not slow to condemn the action of Admiral Kimberly in allowing the vessels to be caught in such a storm without using some precautionary measures. This was the season of the year when hurricanes and tidal waves might be looked for, and the sailing directions plainly state this fact. Many officers think, and especially since the story of those of the British steamer Calliope, that there is sure to be an investigation by a court of inquiry. The loss of life and ships will have to be inquired into. If there was coal enough to get up steam on the ships, it was, they say, the captain's duty to have fired up and run the mouth of the harbor, as the commander of the Calliope did, and then ride out of the gale. If it is found there was no coal, then the cause of this state of affairs should be inquired into, and the responsibility fixed where it belongs.

Funeral of James E. Christie.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Funeral services were held all noon yesterday in the Senate reception room at the capital, over the remains of James E. Christie, who died here Saturday morning. Senator Ingall, Hayley, Teller, Hale, and others, in fact nearly all the senators now in the city, a number of congressmen and many personal friends of the deceased—including Gen. Boynton, E. B. Wright, P. V. DeGraff, and many other journalists were present. The floral offerings along the cañey were profuse and beautiful. Dr. Butler, chaplain of the Senate, delivered a brief oration, after which the remains were carried to the Pennsylvania depot, and at 3 p.m. under escort of the venerable Capt. Bassett, assistant door keeper of the Senate; Cliff Norton, the press gallery; Charles B. Read, George H. Boyd, Col. Corser, and W. H. Reynolds, of the clerk's office of the senate, left for Dover, N. H. Dr. Frank A. Christie, brother of the deceased, also accompanied the remains to his home in New Hampshire.

Striking for Nine Hours.

SALEM, Mass., April 8.—The carpenters have inaugurated a general strike for nine hours as a day's work. The carpenters union on Jan. 1, notified the bosses that on April 1 they should demand nine hours as a day's work, and on Monday the men began working nine hours again. Saturday evening, on receiving their pay they found that they had been docked one hour each and the strike was immediately ordered.

IT WAS NOT A GHOST.
A Strange Apparition in the Vicinity of Lincoln Park, Chicago.

CHICAGO, April 8.—Last night at 8 o'clock, Miss Clara Miller, aged 19, a daughter of millionaire John Miller, of Austin, Ill., escaped from a private insane asylum, located in the vicinity of Lincoln park in this city, where she was undergoing treatment. The girl fled through Lincoln park, and as she ran, divested herself of her sealskin coat, hat, etc., which she threw away while running like a deer, having darted hither and thither through the winding pathways of the park. Meanwhile tearing off the remainder of her clothing, Miss Miller finally succeeded in divesting herself of every particle of clothing, even to her shoes and stockings, and in this condition continued to flee through the park in a southerly direction, startling the few people who happened to be abroad in the park on socially a night, and frightening the horses of belated pleasure riders, homeward bound.

Park Police Officer Belleste saw the apparition as it rushed madly along and gave immediate chase. On the form sped, spreading terror. When directly east of the park engine room, it darted straight toward the building and, with a tremendous bound, went in at an open window, falling into the engine room. Officer Belleste caught a glance of the flying form, and, with a cry of horror, darted forward in the dark to catch it. He soon brought the frenzied man with him, and the others, who had been watching from the windows, were greatly astonished to let her go.

"Yes, I'm a girl, but don't tell anybody," answered the woman, whom the policeman had caught and was too astonished to let her go.

"I want to stay here to-night and don't want anyone to know where I am."

"But you haven't any clothes on—not even shoes or stockings," said Officer Belleste, "and you are cold. Where are your clothes?"

"They are about a mile from here up in the park. I pulled them all off so that I could outrun the doctors and the nurses, and so people wouldn't know me. I did outrun them, and people got scared of me and ran away, and the horses all got scared so, and I ran in here, and I am going to stay, too."

The engineer's old stiff and greasy overalls were produced by the frenzied, and the now shivering girl was induced to put them on. Then the old coat was brought and wrapped around the slender form, and buttoned up to the chin. A light was brought, and both men were astonished to see before them a tall, slender, delicate-looking woman, with skin as white as snow, an oval face, with raiment, culture and intellect, showing in every feature, dark gray eyes, with a sparkling, alert expression, and black hair.

The wood and lumber yards suffered great damage from submergence, and a number of vessels dragged their anchors and were driven ashore. One schooner was badly damaged by fire from the Cotton Exchange on the harbor. On the Portsmouth side of the river the lime ware houses of Trout, Terrell & Company, and other buildings were destroyed.

At the navy yard the Pensacola was sunk in the dry dock, and the New Simpson dock was overflowed and very badly wrecked. The marine barracks and other buildings of the yard were injured by the rain and wind. The insurance companies have lost heavily in the freight stored in the trans-shipment ware houses, and in the railroad depots damaged by overflow.

Women and children from houses on Water street were placed on bales of cotton and floted to dry land. Several sick persons were also rescued by this method. None of the outgoing steamer were able to go as far as Old Point last night. They struck the storm in Hampton Roads and were forced to return. The storm was terrible on the coast. Serious dangers are apprehended in that section, but still the government wires are down and nothing can be heard.

The steamer Baltimore from West Point, Va., did not arrive here until 10 o'clock last night. Capt. Nichols says the storm was the most terrible known on the York river. All the houses on the low lands along the river were submerged, and the river is covered with floating cord wood and debris. All the fish ponds—a hundred or more—on the flats at the mouth of the river were destroyed, entailing a heavy loss. Above Yorktown a two-masted schooner and a three-masted schooner loaded with railroad ties are ashore. A small two-masted schooner is sunk about eight miles east of Wind Mill Point.

The storm seems to have done considerable damage all along the bay, as far as Cape Henry. As yet telegraphic communication has not been restored, and it will be impossible to get much news from the bay until the wrecks are up. Vessels destined for the port may pass the capes without the fact being known in Baltimore, owing to the prostration of the wires. A number of vessels which left here Friday and Saturday, were anchored in the bay, afraid to venture outside, and the only information to be obtained from the capes is by means of reports from incoming vessels. All the late arrivals report the storm in the bay the worst in many years. Old Chesapeake fairly dumped herself and made things howl for a time. The storm blew all day yesterday and into the night. It was accompanied by rain, hail and snow, and made the docks of vessels dangerous. The Norfolk boat George, which was due here early yesterday morning, had not put in an appearance up to a late hour.

Worst Storm of His Experience.
ALBANY, N.Y., April 8.—The Baltimore steamer Sue reached here ahead of time last night, having been prevented by the storm from making her usual landings on the Potowmack, and so came straight to the river. Capt. Geoghegan reported that he never saw before such a set in the Potowmack river.

Daniel Augustus, was wrecked on the ledge of rocks in the mouth of Quantico creek. Almost all the bark were swept away on the Potowmack. No less of it.

A TWO-HOUR FIRE.

The Pittsburg Ax, Shovel and Saw Factory Entirely Destroyed.

PITTSBURGH, April 8.—The extensive ax, shovel and saw factories of Hubbard & Company, on the Eighth street, are attempting to burn by fire as ever occurred in this city in years. At 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning fire was discovered in the shovelfactory, and in less than twenty minutes the flames had enveloped the entire factory, consisting of four large frame buildings. In two hours the entire plant with its valuable machinery and large stock, was an ample room for all who come from Samoa. It is understood that 300 of the Vandals and Trenton crews will come by an Australian steamer. Commodore Bonham has arrived at the navy yard, and has commenced his official duties.

Old Enough to Know Better.

NEW YORK, April 8.—William H. Lowen, a book binder, aged 62 years, committed suicide by poisoning himself on Saturday by poison in his vest pocket. The New-Yorker had come aboard the vessel, and induced a sailor to go away with him. Tholen refused to let the sailor have his chest. This angered the runner, and, according to Tholen's story, they attacked him, and he died in self-defense. He had been ordered by the captain to lock up the sailor's chest, as the desertion of the man had caused much annoyance.

Shot by a Sailor.

BROOKLYN, N.Y., April 8.—August Anderson, aged 40 years, a runner of a saloon-boarding house, was shot and killed yesterday by Oswald Tholen, master of the Norwegian bark Enterprise. Anderson and another runner had come aboard the vessel, and induced a sailor to go away with them. Tholen refused to let the sailor have his chest. This angered the runner, and, according to Tholen's story, they attacked him, and he died in self-defense. He had been ordered by the captain to lock up the sailor's chest, as the desertion of the man had caused much annoyance.

Kate Miller, aged 10 years, was thrown from a cab at Chicago and fatally injured.

A Lime House Takes Fire and a Serious Fire Follows—The Loss Will Reach Over Half a Million Dollars—Steamers Unable to Leave Port—Telegraph Wires

NEARLY ALL DOWN—Other Fire Losses.

BALTIMORE, April 8.—The Sun's special from Norfolk, Va., says: The storm Saturday night was terrific. It occurred after midnight, and exceeded in severity the famous August gale of 1879. All Water street and intersecting streets on the wharf front were under water at an early hour, and nearly reached up to the west end of Main street and the cu-tom house. The wharves and ware houses all along the southern and southwestern portion of the city were deeply submerged, and the damage is great all around the harbor, reaching to half a million dollars.

The lime ware houses along Water street took fire and spread to stables and sheds, and then to the warehouse of Batchelder & Collins, J. W. Perry & Company, R. W. Parsons & Company, and John C. Ganic, all succumbing to the flames. These were followed by the old exchange and adjacent buildings, and about 1,000 bales of cotton and other stuff.

A Dollar to Spare.

The grass is greener, the snow is white.
The world is sadder and life is brighter.

The rose has a hue of deeper carnation.

A lovelier halo envelopes creation.

And the goddess of fortune is smiling and fair.

ANOTHER JACK POT.

Officers Masterson and Lannon Pull Seven-Cent Devotees of the Great American Game of Poker.

The sensation of Sunday was the great raid made on a poker room Saturday night, capturing seventeen of the crowd contained therein. The raid was on Charley Ferris' room, over Cul's restaurant, and was made about 1225 Saturday night. Officers Lannon and Masterson entered the rear way, finding the door open, and had the surprised players under arrest in an instant. All gave security for their appearance before the Mayor, who assessed a fine of $10 and costs, amounting in all to $11.99 to each of the seventeen arrested.

One of the crowd is reported to have been shrewd enough to elude arrest by hiding behind the curtains until the excitement of the occasion was over and the police departed.

SCHOOL REPORT.

The following is a report of the school taught in sub-district, No. 12, High Department, Marion township, Marion Co., for the term commencing November 10th, 1888, and ending April 5th, 1889.

Number of pupils enrolled 26; boys 12, girls 14; average monthly enrollment 24; boys 11, girls 13; average daily attendance 21; boys 10, girls 11; average per cent. of attendance 88; boys 91, girls 81. Number of weeks school was in session 100. The names of those who attended every day are: Charles Conley and Abbie Parter; Pleasure Rush and Clara Miller, each attended 99 days.

The attendance was very good while the pupils were members of the school, but a few who were not members for the greater part of the term ran the percent of attendance down considerably. It is hoped, and greatly desired, that all pupils should endeavor to attend the fall term in the future, that they may receive the greater benefit and be helpful to the classes of which they are members. The term has been to me the most pleasant of all my experience in teaching. The pupils were generally energetic in their studies, and though we must regret some mispent time, yet upon the whole, I claim it to be the greatest success that I have ever achieved in the school room. Harmony prevailed, with one exception, and that being of so little importance and minor in its bearing toward a discord, that I may say throughout the entire term. The pupils have shown great respect for the discipline of the school, and parents and patrons, as well as officers of the school, have given us words of encouragement, and wants of the school, for all of which please accept my thanks. Very respectfully yours,

S. L. DAVIS, Teacher.

The Amoying Troops.

There are many evils under the sun and among these is the army of everlasting tramps infesting this place. Almost daily they may be seen taking the town, street by street, first one side and then the other. Where all these vermin come from or where they go to or where they lodge is a mystery to me. They are mostly young and middle aged men, healthy looking, fat and sleek. They have a kind of bear-eyed woe-be-gone look. They usually make their appearance at the kitchen door and in an undertone of voice to those within, "Can I get a piece of bread and butter and a cup of coffee?" They never make any explanation of their condition—they are very moderate in their demands—they simply want something to eat. None offer to give anything in return for this accommodation—they don't want to saw or split wood or spade in the garden, nothing of the kind. They want something to eat, that is all. I don't know how it is in other parts of the town but in this particular locality, the fertile valley of Goose Creek or Fair's Cat Tail swamp, they are a great nuisance and exceedingly annoying. I can think of no remedy unless the authorities would put them to work on the streets.

Speaking of Goose Creek reminds me of a dismal admission given me by Brother Bill Vanwinkle in an article published in the Independent a few weeks ago. He says when the old historic name of Fishhook is again resurrected it will be in a better cause than the defense of Goose Creek ditch. I trust there will be no antagonism between us on the above little squib. Yours truly, F. Finsom, Jr.

GRAND JURY.

Blind Tom Coming.

The genuine, original and only Blind Tom of the world's famous musical prodigy, will be at Music Hall, April 12th. He sings in German, French and English without understanding a single rudiment of written music. He composes artistic gems evincing rare natural ability, and performs the most difficult classical compositions with all the correctness, purity of expression, skill and excellence of the most distinguished artists. He executes three airs simultaneously, each in a different key, performing correctly with the back to the instrument. He will also play second or bass to any piece of music that can be produced by any performer in the audience, and will afterwards exchange seats and play the piano. His wonderful memory and remarkable faculty for analyzing and locating sounds, enables him to imitate upon the pianoforte almost every known musical instrument, and to repeat, without understanding their meaning, the speeches of our greatest orators to which he has listened at different times, with most faithful accuracy, and reproduces upon the piano any piece played in his presence, after once hearing it. The reputation of Blind Tom is world wide. He has visited all countries and charmed and delighted all with his wonderful musical gifts as well as his mirth.
